Contextualizing Conflict:
The Persecutions of 1 Peter in Their Anatolian Setting

Submitted by Travis B. Williams to the University of Exeter as a thesis for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Theology
In October 2010

This thesis is available for Library use on the understanding that it is copyright material and that no quotation from the thesis may be published without proper acknowledgement.

I certify that all material in this thesis which is not my own work has been identified and that no material has previously been submitted and approved for the award of a degree by this or any other University.

Signature: ……………………………………………………………………….
To Amy

וכל נשין שופר ועליון שופרה כללמה כללה ועמל
(1QapGen xx 6-8)

(κύριε) ἐπίταξον ἐλεησά με καὶ αὐτὴν καὶ συνκαταγράσαι κοινῶς (Tob 8.7, G\textsuperscript{II})
Abstract

From beginning to end, the epistle of 1 Peter is concerned with responding to the conflict in which the Anatolian readers have presently become involved. Nevertheless, throughout the history of Petrine scholarship the nature of this problem has generated significant disagreement. Within the most recent discussion, however, a general consensus has been reached. Virtually all commentators now tend to agree that this conflict is a kind of unofficial, local hostility which arose sporadically out of the disdain from the general populace and which was expressed primarily through discrimination and verbal abuse. Ultimately, though, this position rests on a number of undemonstrated contentions which have never been examined through comprehensive and detailed socio-historical inquiry.

The present study is intended to take up the question afresh and to thereby rectify the significant missteps through which the topic has been previously approached. Our purpose is to determine the nature of suffering in 1 Peter by situating the letter against the backdrop of conflict management in first-century CE Asia Minor. To do so, we seek to understand the different means by which conflict was dealt with in Roman Anatolia and how the persecutions of 1 Peter fit into this larger context. Part of this goal is to examine how conflict affected different social groups within the community as a way of determining the various forms of suffering to which specific members may have been prone. Therefore, our efforts consist of an attempt to differentiate the readers’ troubling experiences by providing a detailed “social profile” of the letter’s recipients and to contextualize the conflict situation by locating the problem and its subsequent resolution strategies within the world of first-century CE Asia Minor.
Table of Contents

Acknowledgements ............................................................................................................. ix
Abbreviations ....................................................................................................................... xi

INTRODUCTION

Chapter 1 – Introductory Matters ...................................................................................... 2

A. The Persecutions of 1 Peter in Previous Research ......................................................... 2
B. Purpose of the Study ........................................................................................................ 14
C. Resolving the Difficulties of Historical Reconstruction ............................................. 16
D. Authorship and Date ....................................................................................................... 21

Chapter 2 – Social Conflict in Social-Psychological Perspective ..................................... 33

A. Contribution of Social-Psychological Inquiry ............................................................... 33
B. Defining Social Conflict ................................................................................................. 35
C. Stages of Social Conflict ............................................................................................... 37
   1. Emergence of Social Conflict .................................................................................... 38
   2. Strategic Choice in Social Conflict .......................................................................... 44
   3. Struggle and Conflict Escalation ............................................................................. 48
      a. Nature of Conflict Escalation .............................................................................. 48
      b. Psychological Processes in Conflict Escalation .................................................. 50
      c. Amplifying Factors of Conflict Escalation .......................................................... 52
Conclusion ........................................................................................................................... 56

SECTION ONE:
A “SOCIAL PROFILE” OF THE ADDRESSEES OF 1 PETER

Chapter 3 – The Geographical Setting of 1 Peter ............................................................... 58
A. The Local Setting of 1 Peter ........................................................................62
  1. The Case for a Rural Setting .......................................................................62
  2. The Case for an Urban Setting .....................................................................64
B. The Impact of Roman Rule in Anatolia .........................................................68
  1. Roman Annexation ......................................................................................70
  2. Roman Road-Building ..................................................................................71
  3. Roman Urbanization ....................................................................................74
Conclusion ...........................................................................................................83

Chapter 4 – The Addressees of 1 Peter ..............................................................85
A. Ethnic Composition .........................................................................................85
B. Socio-Economic Status(es) ............................................................................90
  1. The Question in Recent Discussion .............................................................91
  2. The Economic Situation in Roman Anatolia .................................................98
     a. Methodological Considerations ..............................................................99
     b. Economic Conditions in Urban Centers of Roman Anatolia ...............100
  3. The Socio-Economic Status(es) of the Addressees of 1 Peter .....................110
Conclusion ..........................................................................................................121

SECTION TWO:
CONTEXTUALIZING THE CONFLICT IN 1 PETER

Chapter 5 – Conflict Management in Roman Anatolia .....................................124
A. Separate Action Strategies in Roman Anatolia .............................................124
  1. Physical Violence .........................................................................................125
  2. Economic Oppression ..................................................................................126
  3. Spiritual (or Religious) Affliction .................................................................127
B. Third-Party Strategies in Roman Anatolia ......................................................131
  1. Civic Courts .................................................................................................133
     a. Local Officials .........................................................................................134
     b. Legal Jurisdiction ....................................................................................139
2. Provincial Courts .................................................................................................................. 146
   a. Provincial Jury Courts? .................................................................................................. 147
   b. Roman Provincial Governor ......................................................................................... 149
      (1) The Office and Jurisdiction of the Governor ......................................................... 149
      (2) Legal Procedure ................................................................................................. 161

Conclusion .................................................................................................................................. 169

Chapter 6 – The Legal Status of Christians in the Roman World .............................................. 171

A. The Christian Church and the Roman State ....................................................................... 172
   1. Christian Persecution under Decius ............................................................................ 172
   2. Christian Persecution during the Second and Third Centuries CE ......................... 178
      a. Christian Martyrdom Accounts ............................................................................. 178
      b. Imperial Rescripts ............................................................................................... 190
   3. Christian Persecution during the First Century CE ..................................................... 200
      a. Christian Persecution during the Reign of Domitian ............................................. 200
      b. Christian Persecution during the Reign of Nero .................................................... 208

B. Reconciling Legal Status and Christian Persecution .......................................................... 215
   1. The Nature of the Anatolian Judicial Processes ............................................................. 216
   2. The Nature of the Relationship between Christians and Society ................................ 220

Conclusion .................................................................................................................................. 223

SECTION THREE:
THE NATURE OF CONFLICT IN 1 PETER

Chapter 7 – The Cause(s) of Conflict in 1 Peter ..................................................................... 227

A. Behavioral Cause(s) of Conflict in 1 Peter ....................................................................... 227
   1. Suffering from Social Withdrawal .............................................................................. 228
      a. The Problem according to 1 Peter ......................................................................... 228
      b. Social Institutions of Roman Anatolia and Christian Non-Participation ............. 229
         (1) Voluntary Associations ...................................................................................... 230
         (2) Imperial Cult ..................................................................................................... 233
         (3) Worship of the Traditional Gods ....................................................................... 242
2. Suffering for “Good Works/Doing Good”.................................................................245
   a. Challenging the Modern Consensus .................................................................248
   b. A New Perspective on “Good Works” in 1 Peter ..............................................256

B. Legal Cause(s) of Conflict in 1 Peter.................................................................262
   1. Exposing False Assumptions ..............................................................................264
   2. The Legal Status of Christians in 1 Peter 4.16 .................................................268

Conclusion ...............................................................................................................282

Chapter 8 – The Form(s) of Conflict in 1 Peter.....................................................285

A. Explicit/Implicit Forms of Conflict in 1 Peter ......................................................286
   1. Verbal Assault...................................................................................................286
   2. Physical Abuse..................................................................................................287
   3. Legal Actions.....................................................................................................289
      a. 1 Peter 2.11-17 .........................................................................................289
      b. 1 Peter 3.14b-16 .......................................................................................295
      c. 1 Peter 4.12-19 .........................................................................................302

B. Conjectured Forms of Conflict in 1 Peter ...........................................................303
   1. Spousal Tensions ..............................................................................................303
   2. Economic Oppression .....................................................................................308
   3. Social Ostracism ..............................................................................................309
   4. Spiritual (or Religious) Affliction ...................................................................311

CONCLUSION .........................................................................................................313

APPENDIX 1: Suffering and the Unity of 1 Peter ......................................................323
   A. Precursors to the Partition Debate .................................................................323
   B. Modern Partition Theories .............................................................................324
   C. Towards the Modern Consensus .....................................................................329

APPENDIX 2: Roman Annexation of Asia Minor ..................................................334

APPENDIX 3: Cities of First-Century CE Anatolia .................................................345
   A. Ancyra .............................................................................................................345
B. Comana (Hieropolis) ........................................................................................................349

APPENDIX 4: Ancient Economics in Recent Discussion .......................................................355
   A. The “Modernist” Approach of M. I. Rostovtzeff .........................................................355
   B. The “Primitivist” Approach of M. I. Finley ...............................................................357
   C. The Post-Rostovtzeffian-Finleyan Era ......................................................................364

BIBLIOGRAPHY .................................................................................................................366