CULTURAL TOURISM, YOUNG PEOPLE AND DESTINATION PERCEPTION: A CASE STUDY OF DELPHI, GREECE

Submitted by,

Nikolaos Boukas,

to the University of Exeter

as a thesis for the degree of

Doctor of Philosophy in Management Studies

August 2008

This thesis is available for Library use on the understanding that it is copyright material and that no quotation from the thesis may be published without proper acknowledgement.

I certify that all material in this thesis which is not my own work has been identified and that no material has previously been submitted and approved for the award of a degree by this or any other University.

Nikolaos Boukas
Abstract

The aim of the study is to identify young visitors' perceptions of the archaeological site of Delphi in Greece by measuring their importance and satisfaction levels from a series of cultural attributes through importance-satisfaction analysis. Even though young people are an important segment of the tourism industry little research has been done concerning their actual behaviour towards culture and cultural destinations. Given their significance, an examination of their perceptions towards cultural destinations can give useful insights. This can be done both academically, for the enrichment of theory, but also practically, for the appropriate management of cultural sites according to their needs and wants. In this study it was found that young visitors consider culture as one of the most important motives for travelling. According to the respondents, attributes related to monuments/exhibits at the site are more important than the facilities and amenities provided by its managers. The research identified that, overall, young people were fairly satisfied with Delphi, particularly with its beauty and landscape, but less satisfied with the man-made interventions. Importance-satisfaction analysis indicated that issues concerning the organisation and promotion of the site have positive levels of satisfaction, while issues concerning education and quality have comparatively negative levels. Factor Analysis derived three groups of attributes that should be considered for the future planning of the destination: 'Place and Experience'; 'Amenities and Quality'; 'Facilities and Operation'. Finally, Cluster Analysis indicated that there are three main segments of young visitors in Delphi which, according to their profile, develop certain behaviours that should also be taken into account for the future promotion of the site; ‘The Greeks’; ‘The Americans and others’; ‘The French’. Therefore, better management strategies according to the needs and wants of this dynamic market would make the site more attractive, contributing to the promotion of cultural tourism in general. The study found that young people are great ‘consumers’ of culture and seek to enrich their knowledge while visiting cultural destinations. If a cultural destination meets their specific needs and wants, greater levels of satisfaction will be generated. Positive levels of satisfaction will lead to a series of positive consequences: loyalty, mouth to mouth marketing and peer influence. This, in addition to the fact that young people are the tourists of the future, can lead to the creation of consciousness for culture while travelling and to the enhancement of the potential visitation of the site in the following years.
I would like to express my deep and sincere gratitude to my supervisors, Dr. Tim Coles and Professor Gareth Shaw for their detailed and constructive comments. Their guidance and support was invaluable and helped me to complete this thesis.

I wish to express my thanks to all these people that helped me to gather the material for the thesis, as well as the manager of Delphi, Mrs. Rozina Kolonia for giving me permission to execute the research in the archaeological site of Delphi.

I would like to thank my colleagues for providing a good working atmosphere, as well as my friends for their support. Especially, I would like to thank Evaggelia Letti and my friend Nikolaos Mamagakis for their valuable help during my fieldwork.

My special thanks to my brother Harris and my girlfriend Sophia. Finally, I owe my loving thanks to my parents Georgios and Chrystalla. Without their encouragement, reliance and understanding it would have been impossible for me to finish this work. Thank you.
TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER ONE  ......................................................................................................................... 1
Introduction .............................................................................................................................. 1

1.1 Background ....................................................................................................................... 1
   1.1.1 Cultural tourism: an overview ..................................................................................... 2
   1.1.2 The significance of youth market ............................................................................... 5
   1.1.3 Measuring perceptions: customer satisfaction ............................................................. 10
   1.1.4 Marketing cultural and heritage destinations ................................................................ 12

1.2 Aim and objectives ............................................................................................................ 13

1.3 Location of research and a brief rationale for its selection ............................................. 17

1.4 Structure of the thesis ....................................................................................................... 19

CHAPTER TWO  .......................................................................................................................... 22
Literature review ....................................................................................................................... 22

2.1 Introduction ....................................................................................................................... 22

2.2 Heritage and Culture ......................................................................................................... 24
   2.2.1 The concept of heritage .............................................................................................. 24
   2.2.2 Heritage: definitions and significance issues .............................................................. 25
   2.2.3 Heritage as tourism motivation .................................................................................... 33
   2.2.4 Culture for the purpose of tourism ............................................................................. 40

2.3 Typology of cultural tourists ............................................................................................ 46
   2.3.1 Cultural tourists' definitions ....................................................................................... 46
   2.3.2 Typologies of cultural tourists ..................................................................................... 47
   2.3.3 Similarities of cultural tourists with other forms of tourists ......................................... 62

2.4 Trends in youth tourism ................................................................................................... 67
   2.4.1 The study of youth people ............................................................................................ 67
   2.4.2 Youth tourists' definitions ........................................................................................... 68
   2.4.3 Youth tourism segments: profile and travel characteristics ........................................ 74
   2.4.4 Youth tourists’ and cultural attractions ...................................................................... 82

2.5 Destination attributes, heritage attributes and satisfaction ........................................... 87
   2.5.1 Travel destinations and attributes .............................................................................. 87
   2.5.2 Definition of customer satisfaction .............................................................................. 95
2.5.3 Customer satisfaction and travel destinations ........................................ 99

2.6 Summary ........................................................................................................ 102

CHAPTER THREE ............................................................................................. 108
Methodology ........................................................................................................ 108

3.1 Introduction .................................................................................................... 108

3.2 Background and case study selection ............................................................. 110
  3.2.1 Greek tourism .......................................................................................... 110
  3.2.2 Case study selection ............................................................................... 115

3.3 Research design ............................................................................................. 122

3.4 Principles of data collection ........................................................................... 124

3.5 Questionnaire - Design and execution ........................................................... 131

3.6 Interviews – Design and execution .................................................................. 138

3.7 Sampling ........................................................................................................ 140
  3.7.1 Background population ......................................................................... 140
  3.7.2 Types of sample ...................................................................................... 141
  3.7.3 Chosen sample ....................................................................................... 144
  3.7.4 Size of sample ....................................................................................... 145

3.8 Data analysis .................................................................................................. 146
  3.8.1 Editing .................................................................................................... 149
  3.8.2 Coding ..................................................................................................... 149
  3.8.3 Data entry ............................................................................................... 150
  3.8.4 Statistical Analysis ............................................................................... 151

3.9 Summary ........................................................................................................ 164

CHAPTER FOUR ............................................................................................... 167
Findings: Quantitative Analysis ........................................................................... 167

Importance of culture and satisfaction from Delphi .......................................... 167

4.1 Introduction .................................................................................................... 167

4.2 Sample demographic profile .......................................................................... 170

4.3 Sample travel profile ..................................................................................... 176

4.4 Importance and satisfaction off/from culture .............................................. 192
  4.4.1 Importance of culture for young people ............................................... 193
4.4.2 Satisfaction with Delphi for young people ................................................................. 199

4.5 Influences on cultural visits ................................................................................. 205
  4.5.1 Importance and satisfaction association (attribute level) ........................................... 206
  4.5.2 Overall importance of culture and overall satisfaction association ......................... 214
  4.5.3 Importance of culture and demographic profile ......................................................... 216
  4.5.4 Importance of culture and travel profile ................................................................. 222
  4.5.5 Overall satisfaction and demographic profile ......................................................... 228
  4.5.6 Overall satisfaction and travel profile .................................................................. 231

4.6 Summary ........................................................................................................... 238

CHAPTER FIVE ......................................................................................................... 243

Findings: Factor and Cluster Analyses ..................................................................... 243
  5.1 Introduction ........................................................................................................ 243
  5.2 Factor analysis .................................................................................................... 245
  5.3 Cluster analysis ................................................................................................... 256
  5.4 Summary ........................................................................................................... 267

CHAPTER SIX ........................................................................................................ 271

Findings: Short-interviews .................................................................................... 271

Importance of culture for young people, strengths and weaknesses of Delphi .......... 271

  6.1 Introduction ........................................................................................................ 271
  6.2 Profile of the respondents ................................................................................... 272
  6.3 The role of culture and Delphi .............................................................................. 277
    6.3.1 The role of culture during travelling ................................................................. 278
    6.3.2 Influence for visiting cultural destinations; the role of the parents ..................... 285
    6.3.3 The strengths and weaknesses of Delphi ......................................................... 290
    6.3.4 Changes for attracting more young visitors in Delphi ....................................... 295
  6.4 Summary ........................................................................................................... 298

CHAPTER SEVEN .................................................................................................... 300

Conclusion ............................................................................................................. 300
  7.1 Introduction ....................................................................................................... 300
7.2 Summary of main findings and practical implications ........................................ 301
  7.2.1 Summary of the main findings ................................................................. 304
  7.2.2 Implications .......................................................................................... 312
  7.2.3 Marketing management issues ............................................................... 320

7.3 Contribution of the thesis .............................................................................. 325

7.4 Limitations of the study .................................................................................. 330
  7.4.1 Research design limitations ................................................................. 330
  7.4.2 Methodological limitations .................................................................... 331
  7.4.3 Literature limitations .............................................................................. 333
  7.4.4 Policy limitations .................................................................................. 334

7.5 Implications for future research ................................................................. 335

BIBLIOGRAPHY .................................................................................................. 340

APPENDICES .................................................................................................. 363

Appendix 1 – Questionnaire ............................................................................... 363
Appendix 2 – Interview Questions ....................................................................... 371
Appendix 3 – Univariate & Bivariate Analysis ..................................................... 372
Appendix 4 – Cluster Analysis .......................................................................... 389
LIST OF TABLES

Table 2.1: Classification of Heritage ........................................................................................................... 27
Table 2.2: Importance of activities in decision to come to Britain on a leisure visit (according to Overseas Visitors Survey, 1996) .............................................................................................................. 35
Table 2.3: Characteristics of cultural tourism and cultural tourists ............................................................ 42
Table 2.4: Characteristics of heritage, cultural and creative tourism .......................................................... 44
Table 2.5: Demographic & socioeconomic characteristics of cultural tourists ........................................... 50
Table 2.6: Five types of cultural tourists ...................................................................................................... 56
Table 2.7: Typology of the cultural tourist (Munsters, 1994) ..................................................................... 58
Table 2.8: Age of young tourists according to research and commercial individuals ......................... 69
Table 2.9: Youth travellers’ characteristics .................................................................................................. 76
Table 2.10: Student/youth market segments ............................................................................................... 78
Table 2.11: Project M surveys .................................................................................................................... 86
Table 2.12: Typology of tourist and leisure environments ......................................................................... 89
Table 2.13: Travel attributes ...................................................................................................................... 91
Table 2.14: Criteria of a ‘successful’ heritage attraction ............................................................................. 93
Table 3.1: Top 15 foreign arrivals at Greece by nationality (1994 – 2006). .................................................. 111
Table 3.2: Origin of visitors interviewed at three cultural sites, summer 1992 ........................................... 113
Table 3.3: Sources of secondary data ....................................................................................................... 126
Table 3.4: Features of qualitative and quantitative research ...................................................................... 127
Table 3.5: A comparison between qualitative and quantitative research .................................................. 128
Table 3.6: Types of samples – Main advantages and disadvantages ............................................................. 142
Table 3.7: Exploratory and confirmatory factor analysis ........................................................................... 157
Table 4.1: Demographic profile of young visitors ....................................................................................... 170
Table 4.2: Travel profile of young visitors .................................................................................................. 178
Table 4.3: Ways of arrangement of main holiday or short break ................................................................ 182
Table 4.4: Rating of the reasons .................................................................................................................. 189
Table 4.5: Stay during the trip to Delphi ..................................................................................................... 190
Table 4.6: Rating of the culture’s importance while travelling ................................................................. 194
Table 4.7: Importance of 33 attributes for cultural sites, in general .......................................................... 195
Table 4.8: Overall satisfaction .................................................................................................................... 199
Table 4.9: Satisfaction from the 33 attributes of the archaeological site of Delphi .................................. 201
Table 4.10: Comparison of attributes – Importance & satisfaction levels .................................................. 203
Table 4.11: Wilcoxon Signed Rank Test for the importance and the satisfaction of each attribute.................................................................................................................................................. 208
Table 4.12: Importance of culture & overall satisfaction relationship ....................................................... 215
Table 4.13: Association between demographic characteristics and the importance of culture –
    Kruskall-Wallis test ................................................................................................................................. 219
Table 4.14: Impact of occupation on importance of culture while travelling - Kruskall-Wallis test

Table 4.15: Travel characteristics and importance of culture (2 groups) ........................................ 223

Table 4.16: Travel characteristics and importance of culture (more than two groups) - Kruskall-Wallis test ................................................................. 225

Table 4.17: Demographics characteristics and overall satisfaction - Kruskall-Wallis test ........ 229

Table 4.18: Pairs of groups that indicated significance difference in terms of annual income and overall satisfaction ................................................. 229

Table 4.19: Total household income and overall satisfaction; mean rank scores .................. 229

Table 4.20: Travel characteristics and overall satisfaction (2 groups) ................................ 231

Table 4.21: Travel characteristics and overall satisfaction (2 groups) ................................. 232

Table 4.22: Reasons for travelling and overall satisfaction; mean rank scores .................. 237

Table 5.1: Factor analysis results with Varimax Rotation – Importance & Satisfaction ........ 252

Table 5.2: Contribution to each cluster .................................................................................. 259

Table 5.3: Cluster analysis – Demographic & Travel profile ................................................. 262

Table 5.4: Comparison of respondents' characteristics to travel clusters ......................... 264

Table 6.1: Demographic profile of interview participants ..................................................... 273

Table 7.1: Findings: relation to objectives and research questions ..................................... 303

Table 7.2: Summary of findings ......................................................................................... 310

Table 7.2: Summary of findings (cont.) .............................................................................. 311

Table 7.2: Summary of findings (cont.) .............................................................................. 312