

Figure 2. The revised process model for the MESH intervention.

This model depicts the patient processes and the intervention processes that influence self-care behavior. Solid lines represent a proposed causal pathway. Dotted lines suggest that one process may increase change in the other.

